

Lord give me a greater love and respect for my spouse. Show me where I am prideful and insisted on my own way. Show me where I need to learn to yield. Put it in my heart Lord so I can be honest when I have been selfish and needed my spouses input and covering.

Lord I beg you to change me and show me how I am stifling my spouse and overshadowing him. Please help me to really seek out the opinion of my spouse on everything and follow it. Help me to make them feel day after day their preference really matters and that it's important to me.

Help me to compliment them frequently and sincerely on their appearance and wisdom. Help me to let them know and feel that they are appreciated and use words of endearment like "Honey would you please".

Help me to notice the little things I take for granted that they do for me to let me know they care and let me always compliment them for that. Amen
